Chess4Solidarity online chess event between players from the USA and Israel! Chess is always a good way to connect, especially these days. Sunday, Feb 28, 11:30 AM EST

What about

Chess and Social Chess???

1. Chess is a sport !

2. Chess is an educational tool!

3. Chess is a game and a language.

“Social Chess” is chess that has an impact on individuals and on society.

PAWNS OF THE PEACE PROCESS

This past weekend, Chess4Solidarity conducted a virtual international tournament between Israeli and Moroccan participants. The event featured 250 participants alongside a live feed and commentary. Israeli Avital Borchovsky won first prize in the tournament. The "Queen's Gambit" award, an award for the most outstanding women in the competition – named after the new Netflix show – went to Israeli Marcel Afroimsky. So far, the Chess4Solidarity initiative has hosted over 3,000 participants in solidarity events between Israel, Syria, Sudan, Algeria, Tunisia, Jordan, Egypt and more. 'Israel is striving for peace with many Muslim countries, peace that will include friendly relationships and collaborations between organizations and people in many fields,' said Founder of Chess4Solidarity Lior Aizenberg. "The Chess4Solidarity initiative will continue to bring people together via Chess, and to bring players together globally." (Courtesy)

"We must build peace in the heart of men and women" – UNESCO.

Yes! Chess can be sport, educational tool and can also build cultural bridges between people and nations.

"Please convey to Mr Lior (Aizenberg) the appreciation and support of UNESCO to the event organized by Chess4Solidarity on International Tolerance Day. This is a very positive intercultural dialogue initiative, combining the spirit of competition and civilized fight of one of the oldest and most sophisticated games in the world, with a call for dialogue and mutual understanding."

I attended one of the most moving and emotional events of my life, fighting back tears. It was not just another chess simultaneous exhibition. My sister Sofia from Israel and I had traveled from Budapest to Berlin to be part of the extraordinary event "The Missing Player". An Israeli-German solidarity event for the release of hostages kidnapped 160 days ago. It was unique in every way, as the room in the German Parliament was full of emotions, including chess fans, but the focus was on the portraits of the hostages and the attentive listening of the families involved. I will never forget that. I wish the fighting was limited to the chessboard. 🙏🥰
