Mr Ignatius Leong introduced the role of the Development Commission and the various sub-commissions such as CACDEC.

Mr Alan Herbert, Co-chairman of CACDEC, described the preliminary work done on the basis of economic and development variables. The Continental presidents would be reviewing the suggestions made in the meeting and present their recommendations. Budgets were also discussed and allocations would be made to a small central amount to cut across continents. Around 10%.

E.g. CACDEC arbiters getting the opportunity to work during Olympiads; this would require a change from current policy. A number of places would be reserved for CACDEC arbiters who have already the FIDE arbiter title. The rest of the budget would be split as follows : 40% would be allocated to Africa, 25% to Asia and 25% to America. The exact amounts would be dependant on the budget voted by the FIDE Board.

Continental presidents would set the priorities and it was important that CACDEC members speak to their presidents accordingly to draft up programmes. The discussions regarding the CACDEC lists was urgent and whilst there could be emotional interpretation of some decisions it was important to push forward immediately around 8 countries that were not on the list but should be beneficiaries of CACDEC activities.

Mr Leong explained the core principle that the Continental Presidents were more knowledgeable of the requirements of Federations in their area rather than the CACDEC commission giving the same resources to all Federations on an equal platform when the needs of each Federation were different.

Mr Herbert said that there were still some countries which did not have a Federation but had chess players. Also all Federations should be categorised according to criteria which would be used irrespective of whether the country was fully developed or not.

Mr Esau of South Africa recommended that we focus on specific areas and then move on at a later stage. We must look at issues of proximity.

Mr Buthali of Botswana said that we should have a zonal plan and one should encourage is that as much as one appreciates the quota, the Continents should have a clear visible proposal on how this could be used.

Mr Alexander Kostyev suggested that in each CACDEC area there would be training centres.

*****

Mr Leong said that the Chess In Schools Committee had been advised of Mr Palladino's resignation and that the President would be considering a new chairperson.

Accreditation of trainers was very important as it was easy to teach chess but not so easy to teach chess correctly.

*****

Mr Esau informed the Commission that due to the Women's committee starting at 3.00pm this clashed with the round and the meeting was only ½ an hour long. They requested if there were female trainers as a form of inspiration to other female players.

Mr Leong said that some initiatives were taken in Halkidiki such as increasing the women's teams to 4+ 1 and counter balance by reducing the men to 4+1.

*****

Mr Leong reported a very good meeting on the trainer's committee. It was very well attended. Mr Campomanes and Ms Susan Polgar were also there. Accreditation and examinations will start and fees will be agreed upon. Trainers will have to renew their licences every four years.

Training academies will be set up all over the world. Trainers will be invited to give their ideas and these will be circulated to Federations all over the world. Minimum requirement for recognising training is 2 senior instructors.
