Dear Ignatius,

The current FIDE's structure concerning commissions and committees has existed for more than 10 years. It has some advantages but also a lot of disadvantages. The German Chess Federation therefore proposes to establish a working group in order to check whether a more efficient structure can be set up.

As to the importance of this subject, there is no need of presenting the results at the next year's General Assembly. The work should be fairly done by taking into consideration the experience of the current and previous chairmen of the present commissions and committees.

Best regards,

Horst Metzger
